

Polishing and Promoting Your Voices.com Profile

Learn how you can prime your profile and make it the best that it can be.

Now that you've got a profile that's promotion-worthy, it's time to start actively directing traffic to your Voices.com profile!

Find out how you can do that in VOX Daily.

Helping Others To Find Your Profile

So you're ready to start sharing your profile and promoting your voice over business in new exciting ways? Each page on your profile has links to share on social media channels such as Facebook and Twitter but there is so much more you could be doing!

When looking for insider tips to attract people to your profile, you've got to seek them from those who know the site best who can show you how to leverage the content on your Voices.com profile and get more listens as well as potential job opportunities.

At Voices.com, our staff does our best to offer tips on how to promote your Voices.com profile through articles, podcasts and also via guidance provided on webinars including shows such as:

- Makeover Mondays
- Setting Yourself Up For Success

Makeover Mondays

This webinar is designed to help you get the most out of your Voices.com profile. Experts on the show from Voices.com include Social Media Manager Ashley Davidson and Customer Support Specialist Kayla Moore. Each week, one of Voices.com's talent members gets a live makeover of their profile on this popular webinar. Components include making over the profile, optimizing it for the search engines and how to share your profile via social media. Time is set aside for a Q&A period nearing the end of the show. Makeover Mondays can be tuned into live on every Monday at 3 p.m. EST.

Setting Yourself Up For Success

Primarily geared toward members who have just subscribed (but open to anyone), this webinar helps talent to explore their profile and learn more about what they can complete in their profile and why it matters. The topics discussed are helpful and ensure that once you're through, you'll be receiving all of the job notifications that you ought to be after completing your profile and selecting your preferences. Social Media Manager Ashley Davidson and Customer Support Specialist Kayla Moore host this webinar every Friday at 3 p.m. EST.
