

The Art of Voice Acting

The Craft & Business of Voiceover

by James R. Alburger

Dear Art of Voice Acting Contributor:

Re: request for rights clearance:

I am currently preparing a manuscript for publication with Routledge, an imprint of Taylor & Francis. I would be grateful if you would grant me permission to use the material noted below for inclusion in an upcoming edition of my book, The Art of Voice Acting:

Please put an "X" to indicate your submission type(s). Submit a separate form for each contribution.

- ___ An article/post discussing a technique, tip, story or other textual content (600- 1,000 words)
- ___ A form, PDF file or other support material accompanying a technique or tip
- ___ Original graphic design images intended to support a voiceover concept or character sketches
- ___ A script demonstrating a genre of voiceover copy (1 or more. Please include audio if possible.)
- ___ An audio example associated with a submitted script (1 or more. Please include script if poss.)
- ___ A video example associated with a submitted script (1 or more)
- ___ Other (describe): _____

Title of work: _____

The rights included in this release are non-exclusive world rights in all languages for reproduction in all forms and media, including electronic or other media now known or to be created in the future. You are granting permission for me to include your material in its entirety or edited as might be needed in the above-mentioned book and in future revisions and editions of the book published by Routledge or its licensees or any other publisher, posting on the book's supporting web site, and in materials that accompany my workshops and training events. This release includes the right to associate a link or website posting of the submission and any related audio, video or graphics that might be associated with the contribution. This is not a transfer of copyright. You will of course be credited as copyright holder and/or performer – please PRINT in clear block letters the correct wording you wish to be used. If not already provided, I also require a copy of the above material in the form of a printed document or electronic file (PDF, DOC, or MP3) for reproduction, as noted. If there is an additional copyright holder, please let me know to whom I should apply. Because the book is in the process of being written, granting this release does not guarantee inclusion in the book.

Notes:

Copyright

Please PRINT your full name above as you would like to be credited in the book AND the correct name/year for copyright notice.

Please indicate above the website URL you would like referenced in the book (if any).

Additional copyright holder (if any) for this submission. Name, Company, Address, Phone, Email

Please return a completed, signed copy of this release by postal mail or Email at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

I hereby grant the above rights to the materials noted above:

James R. Alburger

Signed _____

Date _____

Printed name _____

Email _____

So I can mail your copy,
Print Mailing Address: _____